

Batavia Youth Bureau's Youth Connection Program Sponsors Juggling Workshop

If you are looking for something fun to do on a Saturday afternoon, grab your friends and attend a juggling workshop at the Youth Connection Program at the Batavia Middle School, 96 Ross St., Batavia, on November 20, from 2:00 pm – 3:30 pm. This workshop is being offered to kids between the ages of 8 and 16.

Western New York Juggler Dave Fultz introduces the age-old circus discipline of juggling in a way that all students can understand, enjoy and embrace.

There are many advantages to learning and participating in juggling. Not the least of these is aerobic exercise, confidence building, improved coordination and dexterity and many more. But most of all, juggling is just plain fun!

When Dave teaches students the art of juggling, it's not just scarves and balls and repetition. Dave introduces a myriad of different juggling props in the very best tried and true step-by-step learning methods.

Students will learn: three-ball cascade juggling, diabolo, devil or flower stick juggling, box manipulation and if time permits - spinning and balancing.

Dave has taught countless seminars and workshops on juggling, and has attended a number of juggling conventions and workshops where he has learned from some of the best in the world.

This is a humorous, entertaining and memorable approach to exercise and education that students may find helpful for many years to come.

So, if you want to have fun on a Saturday afternoon by learning how to juggle, register for this free workshop by calling the Batavia Youth Bureau at 345-6421.
